

@ Mill Creek Library

No observing today! All activities moved inside.

Experimenting with The "UV light detectors"... the beads began to change color inside near the window.

Hoping the sky would clear... visitors made their own sundials

... and learned about the path of the sun in the sky.

